

harrow and cultivators attract considerable attention.

W. H. Clifford, Paris, exhibits a Deering reaper, which through it looks complicated, he says is very simple to operate, and will cut and bind an acre per hour. He does a good deal of reaping in his neighborhood. He has had this reaper for the past two years.

Thursday, the last day, opened bright and sunny. People began to gather about the day was still young, very young, and the attendance was good for the Fair's third day.

Most of the fair's and many exhibitors were at work early during things and making them best and attractive.

Here's where you get your nice hot breakfast, right this way, come one, come all, we're ready for you. This was the first time we heard on reaching the grounds.

Most of the cattle were gone, all of the goats and sheep and the swill-feeding swine had disappeared and but little of the poultry exhibited remained. The ground was strewn with all manner of circulars, among which we noticed but few of the Advertiser's Fair Programs, thus showing that the fair was over and well we had done our work of distributing.

The Great Western road machine was the largest of a man who is an excellent talker.

Photographer Bartlett of Norway brought himself taking pictures of the fair's interior, and the people stood in groups to watch him.

The old black beetle that Chief Marshal W. C. Cole rode for fifteen years on the grounds has at last given way to a younger animal, a bright bay in color.

PARADE.

March 10, W. C. Cole formed the parade at 10:30 on Thursday.

He rode ahead closely followed by the Norway Band Band, 25 pieces, A. E. Newsworthy, leader.

Next marched Company D, 1st regiment, N. G. & S. L. community called the Norway Light Infantry, 27 men, Capt. Lewis P. Stiles commanding.

The first team advertised the washing machine, 5 bay horses from the Norway Sale, and the express wagon from same. General Agent W. G. Hartwick and his agent rode, and worked the machine while driving.

Second was gotten up by Lillie York of Norway. A nice chestnut horse and nice York and Barbara McKay dressed like the carriage in white and gold.

A profession of beautiful flowers and a fine display of the third which was a nice display of farm products arranged about and around a farm wagon draped with red, white and blue bunting. This was decorated for Rufus K. Morrill of Norway by Edward J. McGrath.

Fourth was from W. C. Pierce, the South Paris Jeweler, and was a neat carriage in tissue paper carrying two cunning little children. This was a beautiful little black pony and a fine pony carriage.

Fifth was Midge Wilson and Marion Jones of South Paris in a nicely decorated carriage all covered with yellow tissue paper. The horse was a dark bay.

Sixth was gotten up by G. Black horse from Andrew's Sale Stable. It was the Great Western Road Machine.

Seventh and eighth were from C. W. Bowler's dry goods store, South Paris. A team of white horses pulled a carriage caparisoned in pink and attached to a claret repellant with pink tissue paper. The ladies were Mrs. Bowler, Alice Clark and little Helen Barnes. The ladies wore pink and white.

Ninth was M. J. Spies, the Loviston's advertising cut.

On the whole, the parade was not only good but very good. What there was of it, but the number of carriages was small and the plan is to make this an annual feature, and if that idea is carried out we shall expect it to grow, year by year.

STURDIUS RACES.

There was a good attendance and the Grand Stand was well filled. In the named race purse $200 they were slow in the first half and the drivers seemed to think that they could drive to suit themselves but in this they were mistaken and the crowd informed them that they were trotting under the National Rules. Philip Ash was taken from his sulky and Clara Thayer drove. Same judges as the two previous days.
